Multiple Intelligences

Have you ever wondered why some people excel at something while others don’t? Do you feel you learn certain subjects better than others? Do you ever wonder what your strengths are?

You might need to explore your multiple intelligences! An intelligence is the ability to create products or solve problems. There are eight different intelligences, each referring to a different aspect of knowledge and understanding. Every person has their own, unique intelligences that they which they excel.

The Eight Intelligences

Logical-Mathematical
- Use of logic
- Sound reasoning
- Problem solving analysis
- Sequential thinking

Musical
- Acute sensitivity to and appreciation of musical patterns
- Skilled in reading and writing music
- Strong auditory memories
- Use of vocal or instrumental ability to express creativity

Bodily-Kinesthetic
- Encompasses fine, precise body rhythms
- Motor coordination skills
- Flexibility
- Strength and speed

Linguistic
- Verbal and written language abilities
- Curiosity and fascination with words and meanings
- Vivid memories about written or spoken language
- Expresses ideas well in writing

Spatial
- Accurate and keen perceptions of patterns in the world
- Presents ideas graphically
- Precise perception
- Strong visualization skills, creativity, and active imaginations

Interpersonal
- Emphasizes effective interpersonal communication skills
- Social skills
- Leadership ability
- Cooperative teamwork

Intrapersonal
- Focuses on personal growth
- Self-understanding
- Personal reflection
- Motivation

Naturalist
- Sensitivity to the physical world
- Awareness of the balance of animals and nature
- Detailed knowledge in recognizing plants and animals
- Expertise in classifying plants and animals