Holy, Holy, Holy
Isaiah 6

Everyone can share in the magnificence of Isaiah’s vision of the Lord by looking closely at the vision’s key components:

1. The Holy Trinity.

How does Isaiah describe the Lord in his vision (vv. 1-5)?

_____________________________________________________________________

What clues are we given that perhaps Isaiah has seen the triune Godhead (vv. 3, 8; see also Gen. 1:26, 11:7)?

_____________________________________________________________________

Compare verse 10 with John 12:37-43 and Acts 28:23-29. Who fulfills these words, according to John? Who spoke these words according to Paul?

_____________________________________________________________________

2. The hastening seraphim.

How are the seraphim described (v. 2)?

_____________________________________________________________________

What do the seraphim do (vv. 3, 6-7)?

_____________________________________________________________________

How do seraphim compare with cherubim (Gen. 3:24; Ex. 25:17-22; Ezek. 1:4-25)?

_____________________________________________________________________

(over)
3. The hard message.

What is Isaiah told to say to the people (vv. 9-10)?

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

Why does God want His spokesman to “dull (the Jews’) minds” ... “deafen their ears and blind their eyes” (v. 10; see also Matt. 13:14-15; Acts 28:25-28)?

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

How long is Isaiah to preach this hard message (vv. 11-12)?

________________________________________________________________________

4. The holy seed.

Who is the “holy seed” or “the stump” (v. 13; see also Gal. 3:16)?

________________________________________________________________________

How does the holy seed compare with the “branch” of Isa. 4:2-6?

________________________________________________________________________